Warren County Public Health Travel Clinic

Planning to travel abroad?

In preparing to travel internationally, health care needs are often overlooked by travelers. It is not uncommon to receive conflicting information about what is recommended for prevention of disease and decreasing exposure risk.

DID YOU KNOW?

*Some countries require proof of certain immunizations for entry

*Not all “at risk” areas have government established health precautions

*There are a number of different governmental agencies and professional organizations providing information and recommendations on preventive health care and vaccination requirements. They include:

- The World Health Organization (WHO)
- The International Society of Travel Medicine (ISTM)
- The US Centers for Disease Control (CDC)

Therefore it is crucial to seek out professionals who stay abreast of current travel issues and the latest recommendations and requirements. It is essential for you to receive correct and up to date information and services prior to your travel.

At Warren County Public Health Service:
